The program adopts an internal quality assurance system that aligns with national and international standards for higher education. This system includes clear mechanisms for quality planning, implementation, monitoring, evaluation, and continuous improvement. This is achieved through:

- Defining Quality Standards: Establishing clear standards for the quality of teaching, curricula, scientific research, student services, and facilities.
- Periodic Review: Conducting periodic reviews of all program components by specialized internal and external committees.
- Feedback: Collecting and analyzing feedback from students, faculty members, graduates, and employers for use in improvement processes.
- Improvement Plans: Developing detailed action plans to address identified weaknesses and enhance strengths through evaluation processes.

2. Quality Control Procedures for Program Courses Taught by Other Academic Departments

To ensure consistency and quality in the courses taught by other departments (such as Arabic language courses, or certain related jurisprudence or educational courses), the following procedures are followed in coordination with the heads of the respective departments:

- Systematic Coordination: Holding periodic meetings with department heads and relevant faculty members to review course descriptions, content, teaching methods, and assessment approaches, in order to ensure their alignment with the objectives of the Aqeedah and Usul al-Din program.
- Report Exchange: Exchange of academic performance reports of students in these courses, as well as course evaluation reports by students and faculty members.
- Joint Review: Conducting joint reviews of the achieved learning outcomes in these courses and providing recommendations for their improvement when necessary.

3. Procedures Followed to Ensure Equivalence Between the Program's Main Campus and Other Branches (if any)

In the event of the existence of other branches of the program or parallel tracks (such as a track designated for male students and a track designated for female students within a single main campus), the department ensures equivalence in the quality of education and the resources available. Since the current program focuses on a single main campus, this point does not directly apply to the existence of independent branches. Nevertheless, equivalence between male and female students at the main campus is ensured through:

- Curriculum Unification: The application of the same study plans and educational curricula for all male and female students.
- Equal Resources: Providing the same educational materials, facilities, and services to all students without discrimination.
- Assessment Criteria: Application of unified and fair evaluation standards for all students.

4. Program Plan for Measuring Learning Outcomes at the Program Level:

The program adopts an approved plan for assessing learning outcomes at the course level and subsequently at the overall program level. This plan aims to ensure that students acquire the knowledge, skills, and competencies specified in the program objectives. Learning outcomes are measured through:

- Various Assessment Tools: Utilization of diverse assessment tools such as tests, research projects, presentations, case studies, and practical evaluations.
- Results Analysis: The outcomes of learning assessment are analyzed periodically, and the reports are discussed in the Department Council of Aqeedah and Usul al-Din.
- Improvement Decisions: Based on the results of the analysis and discussions, necessary decisions are made to enhance the quality of the courses, develop teaching methods, and optimally utilize the expertise of the faculty members.

5. Program Quality Evaluation:

The study of Hadith and its sciences is committed to applying the highest standards of academic and administrative quality to ensure the excellence of its educational and research outcomes. This is achieved through an integrated quality assurance system encompassing all aspects of the program. This system aims at the continuous improvement of performance, meeting the requirements of academic accreditation, and fulfilling the mission and strategic objectives of Imam Bukhary University.
